

The mediSIAMS: a Trade Fair Dedicated to the Medical and Dental Markets

What is the goal of mediSIAMS?

The goal of the second mediSIAMS, to be held in Moutier (Switzerland) from March 10th till 13th, 2009, is to render industrial competences in the service of medicine and dentistry visible. For this purpose, the organizers have invited all companies active in this sector to participate in the fair. More than 200 companies, which realize part or all of their production in the medical sector, will no doubt react positively to this invitation. These large as well as small enterprises will present products at their stand at mediSIAMS that are related to the medical market. Professionals will thus be able to discover a large range of inventive, new, practical, original, unique, highly specific, and innovative products of cutting-edge technology that meet the requirements of the market.

Why medical technology in Moutier?

The Arc jurassien is a region in which, traditionally and typically, small precision components are manufactured for the watch and clock industry. These very abilities are however the ones that are also required to manufacture parts for the medical sector. This solid and traditional know-how embedded in our companies allows excellent access to the highly specific medical sector. And this all the more so as the general conditions are especially favourable in our region, the Arc jurassien. After all, we have all the movers and shakers around us who will assure our success. We function according to the principle of an extremely important "competence centre". Actually, everything or almost everything is accessible within a small geographic area. The extraordinary location and situation will be clearly visible at mediSIAMS.

Which categories of exhibitors will be present at the mediSIAMS?

Visitors may expect five big categories of exhibitors: means of production, raw materials, subcontracting, finished-products from the medical as well as dental sector, as well as services. In each of these categories, high-performance companies of regional and international renown will present their know-how.

Several companies of worldwide renown even decided to turn their participation in mediSIAMS into an event of European importance. Among others, internationally leading important manufacturers of machine tools and very important manufacturers of devices and apparatuses have included this fair in their list of main events in 2009. For the second time now, they will present their large range of products for the medical sector.

In addition, a lot of small companies will also be present at mediSIAMS. These small companies only rarely frequent other exhibitions and fairs for reasons of cost or availability. However, they are highly innovative and will present inventive and practical products suitable to quite substantially optimize cutting-edge means of fabrication.

What advantages may the professional visitor profit from?

The mediSIAMS fair is a small event you may visit without stress and where every effort is made to make the visitor welcome.

As the exhibition surface is limited, each exhibitor is easy to see, independently from how important the company is. That's why mediSIAMS allows visitors from the industry to discover companies of world renown but also smaller ones that are hardly ever present at other fairs.

The manufacturers of the machine, tools, and raw-materials industries, the specialists of the subcontracting industry, the manufacturers of finished products and many others will do their very best to turn this second mediSIAMS into a success for themselves, but also for the visitors of course. The four days of this fair will offer unique opportunities to discover specific means of production in the broadest sense of the word; products that are quite specifically intended for the medical and dental sector, that is.

An important event at the fringes of mediSIAMS:

Present your area of activity at the FORUM DES TECHNOLOGIES DU MEDICAL, the Forum of Medical Technology.
